

Lessons With The Beloved

There are many lessons in life but some carry a greater importance to your being. Those are the love for our self and to others. They enfold all we need to know and to be like. The purpose of our life is to live. Live to learn, believe to know and when you know, your mind and body will find peace and comfort. The messages of the Spirit world are of joy, love, compassion and concern. We don't need to fully understand or accept all we hear but when we doubt the words of another, we are closing our minds to further learning and discovery. Let there be Peace on Earth, let there be Peace among all children of this Earth, let there be Peace among all animals and creatures of this Earth and we are to start this Peace within our own minds.
